SUBSIDIZED NEWSPAPERS.

Standard Oil company methods are corporation. If half that the interstate sider the circumstances. commerce commission is trying to prove is capable of proof, the company |  will have been shown to be the most heartless organization that ever existed. The prosecutors of the company however, should beware of a multiplicity of charges of offenses of a minor nature. Wicked as they might! appear to be in the case of the average individual, or the average corporation, they would appear weak, puerils and unimportant in comparison with many pretty well established at th' Rong time of th' yeer. They asts crimes of the oil company. The effect of mingling these lesser charges with the greater ones will naturally be to its advertising space, though after all. the two things are widely different. To newspaper is not however, an admirable thing and the respectable newspaper will not be subsidized. Some newspapers, though, have to be subsidized for either good or evil. They must be subsidized if their support is movement, but they submit just as cheerfully to subsidizing in behalf of an immoral or retrograde movement.

But, as we have said, however despicable on both sides, subsidizing is, it is not criminal. If it should be shown beyond doubt that the Standard Oil has secured the concerted support of a large number of newspapers, and this fact should be included in the an' no Salry attacht Thereto. A CHARTER COMMISSION.

The matter of selecting a commission of business men and tax-payers to work out a new city charter or amendments to the present one, for presentation to the next legislature, is already being agitated. It is certain that something will have to be done. and there appears to be no other way of doing it than through the legislature. It has become painfully evident that the city cannot live on its present income. The income at the time of the adoption of the charter was sufficient, and it was then believed that any judicious extension of the city's boundaries would result in a corresponding increase of taxes to meet necessarily increased expensethat expenditures and income would automatically remain in balance. But that has not been the case. The income has fallen farther and farther behind until now it is so far in the rear that it will never catch up unless the city stand still. That is the very thing that no public spirited man wants it to do for an instant. But that Dispatches.

The only battery of Linotypes in broadened charter shall be secured. It is not complained that any money has been wasted by the city within recent years. It is not even alleged that any has been injudiciously spent. Sober thinking people admit that the town has been benefited by all the expenditures. Moreover, that there are 2.00 many other improvements that we would have been the better for having. The only trouble is there is not a big enough municipal income.
